

analyses utilizing data obtained thereby to evaluate FPC's operating conditions and constraints with and without purchases of QF power.

Lake further agrees that all parties to the proceeding, including the Commission and the Staff, will benefit from the additional time afforded by the requested continuance. Benefits to the parties will include having sufficient time to obtain and analyze necessary data and having sufficient time to prepare their cases. Even with the requested continuance, the Commission would have adequate time to conduct hearings, consider the evidence, and make its decision before significant minimum load conditions recur in the fall of 1995.

WHEREFORE, Lake Cogen joins Orlando CoGen, Limited, in moving the Commission for an order continuing the hearing in this docket and rescheduling the procedural dates governing this docket. In the alternative, if the Commission declines to grant the requested continuance, Lake joins Orlando CoGen in moving the Commission for an order extending the deadline for filing intervenors' testimony by at least 30 days.
