NEW ISSUE: Should the Commission continue to allow electric utilities to retain 20% of the gain on economy sales?

OPC'S POSITION: No. The Commission should stop this practice because it exceeds the Commission's jurisdiction. Economy sales between electric utilities are wholesale transactions subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC). Only FERC can approve the terms and conditions for economy sales, and only FERC can approve the pricing arrangement which determines the amount of the gain to the selling utility. The Commission's practice of requiring electric utilities to reduce retail fuel and purchased power expenses by only 80% of the gain allows the utilities to earn an additional 20% on economy sales above the amount allowed by FERC. The Commission's jurisdiction, however, is limited to retail rates and retail service; it has no jurisdiction to provide an additional return on wholesale sales subject to the FERC's jurisdiction.
