Subject: Gulf Power recouping hurricane $$

As a senior on a fixed income, I am strongly opposed to Gulf Power's plan for recouping hurricane $$$. Gulf Power/FPI is a publicly traded company with good returns to its investors. While I understand the need for assistance to defer the millions of dollars spent, the backs of their customers are being broken. Piggy backing hurricane costs back to back to back is an unfair tactic on the Florida public. The thought of just $9 extra a month for x years and then applying the next hurricane cost is never ending.

Please remember Climate Change, partially caused by older power plants belching pollutants. Hurricane damage will only increase and become more severe. Is this a fair plan? A local business must pay for its repairs. So should GulfPower/FPL. Maybe extra tax breaks, or less dividends paid out or no cost license tags for their vehicles could be a small way to defer cost with out breaking the back of Florida citizens.

Please vote NO to more cost deflection onto customers. Hurricanes are becoming more powerful while Florida citizens are being broken under the repair costs.
