ORDER APPROVING TARIFF

BY THE COMMISSION:

On May 14, 1991, AT&T Communications of the Southern States, Inc. (ATT-C or the Company) filed revisions to its Custom Network Services Tariff, proposing to offer Distributed Network Service (DNS) as an add-on to its recently approved interstate offering. DNS is an outbound long distance service designed to meet the needs of both businesses with many locations and resellers. DNS will collect outbound traffic from each one of a customer's locations; the Company will render a single bill to that customer.

ATT-C plans to market this product to resellers that are currently subscribing to the Company's Software Defined Network (SDN) services. Some SDN customers have complained that adding and deleting locations is too cumbersome with SDN. Adding or Deleting locations quickly is a primary feature of ATT-C's proposed DNS service.

Other interexchange carriers (IXCs) currently have similar aggregator or multi-location offerings in their interstate tariffs. However, some subscribers to these tariffs have been reselling or rebilling the services without first obtaining a certificate to operate as an IXC in Florida. ATT-C is the only IXC that has included the provision that if the service is to be resold or rebilled, the subscriber must have a Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity from this Commission to operate as an IXC. By adding this provision, ATT-C is emphasizing our policy that requires obtaining a certificate before providing, rebilling, or reselling telecommunications services.
