Hi, My name is Colby and I work in the Logistics field. I was supposed to speak at the 2pm call but will be unable to attend.

While I don't personally live in an area serviced by FPL, my company supports several businesses that do. We've found FPL's service to be highly reliable—outages are rare and quickly resolved. In the transportation industry, consistent power is essential to keep time-sensitive commodities moving. Disruptions can delay shipments, compromise product quality, and affect customer satisfaction. Reliable power isn't just a benefit—it's vital to operational continuity and supply chain success.

Although no one enjoys higher utility bills, it's clear that FPL remains focused on delivering consistent service and maintaining open communication throughout these changes
