("CNSI") to AMNEX, Inc. ("AMNEX"), the parent company of American Network Exchange, Inc. ("ANEI"). The Commission also authorized the subsequent consolidation of CNSI and ANEI into a single operating entity at the end of an interim period of approximately nine months. On August 5, 1996, AMNEX, CNSI and ANEI (the "Parties") notified the Commission that the transfer of control had been completed and that CNSI is now a wholly-owned subsidiary of AMNEX.

ANEI, and CNSI will continue to provide intrastate telecommunications services in Florida for the foreseeable future.

The Parties regret any inconvenience to the Commission caused by this change in plans, and will keep the Commission apprised of any future business plans that require Commission approval. It is Parties' understanding that no further action is required to apprise the Commission of the fact that CNSI will not be merged into ANEI and will continue to operate in Florida. The Parties therefore respectfully request that the Commission close this docket.

Please do not hesitate to contact the undersigned if you have any questions.

Very truly yours,
