re: Docket 20230017 Florida Power and Light wants to charge customers additional fees to cover the cost of doing business (repairs after Ian and Nicole). Don't they have insurance, like the rest of us? Annually, FPL donates millions of dollars ($19M in 2020) to charities, in an effort to make people like them. If they're donating that much, how much profit are they making? If I have extra expenses, I don't get to pass those costs on to someone else. FPL regularly demonstrates that they have plenty of money to pay their own bills without increasing ours.
