Subject: TECO and the energy bill

CAUTION: This email originated from outside your organization. Exercise caution when opening attachments or clicking links, especially from unknown senders.

Hello there,

I have lived in Florida for 2.5 years, and am seriously thinking about moving out of state due to the increasing cost of electricity and homeowners insurance.

I currently have TECO energy, but the bill has gone from 235 when we first moved here to over 900 dollars a month! I have done everything to mitigate the usage, and even had TECO energy come out. The solution is NOT to put a monitoring device on my thermostat. Why can't we get the usage credits without the device?

I ask that you please look into this, these bills are becoming such a weight that we are looking to sell our property.

Thank you,

Jennifer Cortez
